Eltham High Street masterplan a step closer

INTO THE FUTURE: an artist

street scene

by Laraine Clay

WORK on a major improvement scheme for Eltham High Street is due to begin next month as part of the council's regeneration masterplan for the town centre.

The scheme – which has been drawn up in close partnership with local residents and businesses is funded primarily by Transport for London (TfL) and includes better crossings, new trees and landscaping, the widening and re-paving of footpaths, upgraded street lighting, more parking spaces and a general de-cluttering of the high street.

The improvements are designed to complement the new Eltham Cinema complex and enhance the best features of the town. It will see side streets upgraded as well. For example, the pedestrian spaces in Passey Place will be enlarged and Sun Yard will be opened to provide direct pedestrian access to the Eltham Centre car park.

A 20mph speed limit on the High Street will also be introduced and the council has gained agreement from TfL to provide additional funding to extend the scheme so that high quality granite paving can be used.

Cllr Danny Thorpe, cabinet member for regeneration and transport, said: "This is an exciting time for the town centre, and this scheme will bring great improvements for shoppers, traders and visitors alike. The proposals have taken shape

Out-of-court settlement over GT

THE Royal Borough has reached agreement with the Department of Communities and Local Government over the future of Greenwich Time.

The council had embarked on a legal challenge last year over the department's moves to require Greenwich Time to limit publication to just four times a year. However, the two parties have now reached an out of court settlement.

Under the settlement, the Royal Borough of Greenwich has agreed that after June 30, it "will not publish more than four issues of Greenwich Time or any equivalent newspaper, newssheet or similar communication per year".

This is in compliance with the government's Code of Recommended Practice on Local Authority Publicity.

For its part the Department of Communities and Local Government has agreed that the Royal Borough of Greenwich may carry out "regular and frequent communication of information" to residents "providing it does not have the appearance of a newspaper, newssheet or similar communication". The agreement says that this publicity may include information regarding waste and recycling dates; deadlines and systems; school admissions deadlines and procedures; council and partner job opportunities; choice based lettings; and other publicity about the council and the services it provides.

Royal Borough council leader Cllr Denise Hyland said: "While we are disappointed we cannot continue with Greenwich Time, we are pleased that the matter has been settled without having to go to court.

"The need for councils to engage with their communities is more pressing than ever, and we are therefore pleased that the department has accepted the royal borough's need to continue to produce regular and frequent communication for residents.

"This will enable us to continue to keep residents up to date on a wide range of important issues, including how to apply for a school place, details of local job opportunities, availability of social housing, and deadlines for recycling."

The cost to the council of preparing the legal challenge was around £48,000 – a cost that was considered to be appropriate in view of the amount that GT saves the local council taxpayer.

Cllr Hyland added: "Without Greenwich Time the cost of placing the council's adverts in a local newspaper during 2013/14 would have been over £220,000 more than it cost the council to run those same adverts in GT. This is equivalent to around £2.30 for each household in the borough, every year."

A spokesperson for the Department for Communities and Local Government said: "We have agreed that the Royal Borough of Greenwich will be fully compliant with the Publicity Code from the end of June 2016, settling the matter without having to go to court."

London's top cop on the beat

POLICE TO MEET YOU: Sir Bernard tours the school and answers pupils' questions, inset, he's accompanied by council leader Denise Hyland and borough commander Helen Millichap

THE CAPITAL'S top cop gave an arresting talk as part of a patrol around Woolwich Polytechnic school in Thamesmead.

Met Police Commissioner Sir Bernard Hogan-Howe gave students an insight into policing in the capital when he visited the secondary school last Wednesday (January 13).

During a question and answer session, Sir Bernard fielded queries from students on a wide range of issues relating to policing including tackling Islamophobia, improving relations with young people, the debate over arming police and racism within the force.

Sir Bernard also spoke about his career and gave some useful advice about careers in law and policing. It proved a lively and immersive debate, with both the students and Sir Bernard benefiting from each other's insight into the topics.

Year 11 pupil Rance Idahosa said: "This was a great opportunity to learn a bit more about the police. There are a few misconceptions and it is important to put them right."

Fellow Year 11 pupil Bradley Marshall added: "It's good to get a chance to speak to real police officers and get their opinions on important issues. The event was a good way to share our ideas with them and let them know what is important to us."

Joining Sir Bernard as guests at the event were Greenwich council leader Cllr Denise Hyland, borough, Greenwich borough commander Helen Millichap and local MP Theresa Pearce.

Cllr Hyland said: "The council is committed to creating strong links between local police, the community and young people in the royal borough. I would like to thank Sir Bernard and our borough commander Helen Millichap for their visit, which helps to develop this strong connection even further."

Ward budget funds park improvements

PARKLAND at Point Hill in Greenwich is due to get a facelift in early summer thanks to money from the council's ward budget scheme.

Benches, flagstones and signage will be restored or replaced while foliage is cut back and railings renewed.

Losing 2 ½ stones was a weight off my mind!

PLUMSTEAD mum-of-one, Johanna, had been overweight since she was a teenager. Now 2 ½ stones lighter, with the help of her Slimming World Group, she has finally ended her bad relationship with food - and it's a huge weight off her mind.

"I was so stuck in my ways, it wasn't so much about what I ate, but when life got stressful or I was sad, I turned to food for comfort. I was so frustrated and I knew that I needed to change my relationship with food from a negative to a positive experience."

Johanna's turning point was seeing photograph of herself. "I felt so shocked that I had got that big. But I was afraid I would be humiliated if I went to a group and that put me off joining any weight loss organisation."

Johanna saw an advert for a Slimming World group and went along in February 2015. "As soon as I walked through the door I was warmly greeted and felt so welcome. I was able to set my own weight loss target which made it so much easier to come back every week. I wasn't being judged and was in total control of my weight loss journey. I'd finally found a room of like minded people and a weight loss plan which I could stick to."

I love to eat, and at Slimming World you are never hungry, you can eat all day long which is what I do. I now enjoy masses of 'free foods' which I don't have to weigh, measure or count and still have my favourite bag of crisps every day which is part of my sins allowance. At Slimming World I learnt that you can eat anything you want just in moderation by making healthy swaps and changes."

Finally Johanna has been able to change

Then stuck in her ways her attitude towards food. "I don't feel bad about food any more. If I have a bad week, I just get on with it and focus on the next week. The group has taught me so much and given me all the ideas and support I needed."

Johanna is so passionate about Slimming World's unique food optimising plan that she is now opening her very own group at the:

STREET PARTY: grants from the Community Arts Funds supported groups to get involved with events such as the Woolwich Carnival last September

First success for home-from-home scheme

A NEW council-backed scheme to help ease the growing housing crisis has notched up its first success.

The Home Purchase Scheme gives people a cash sum to help them with their deposit so they can move out of their council home, and buy their own property. It means their old home is freed up for new tenants on the housing waiting list.

In Greenwich, the council will match the funding offered by the government's scheme pound for pound, up to a maximum of £30,000 each. The scheme means people can move away to a less expensive area if they wish, and still get the funding.

The first family to buy a property under the scheme have just moved into their new home. The father, mother and two children left their two-bedroom council flat in Kingsman Street, Woolwich, and moved to a three-bedroom house after receiving a total payment of £40,000. Their exit has freed up their old flat for new tenants on the council's housing register.

by Dick Townsend-Smith

The father said: "This scheme has really helped us to move to somewhere bigger after nine years in the flat. It's a good scheme for people, and will help them put together the mortgage deposit they will need. We needed a new home and we had been saving up, so it came at just the right time for us."

Cllr Chris Kirby, the council's cabinet member for housing, said: "We are delighted that we have been able to assist this family to move into a home of their choice under this initiative. This is a double win. The family now live in a home that meets their needs and a much needed property has become available to offer to one of the many thousands of households on our waiting list. As a council we face significant financial challenges but we remain determined to explore every opportunity to assist our tenants and those on our waiting list to be housed in suitable accommodation, at the earliest opportunity."

There are currently more than 16,000 names on the list for council accommodation in the borough. The average waiting time for a two-bedroom council flat is more than five years for non-priority cases.

● Council tenants interested in applying for the Home Purchase Scheme should call the royal borough's Home Ownership Unit on 020 8921 4299 or 6858 or visit www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homepurchasescheme

Stand in unity for Holocaust Memorial Day

THE mayor of Royal Greenwich will lead a ceremony to mark Holocaust
 Memorial Day on Wednesday, January 27.

Cllr Norman Adams will be joined by pupils from Mulgrave Primary School at the Town Hall Woolwich for the event, which will include readings, videos, monologues and songs.

Holocaust Memorial Day is commemorated around the world to remember the victims of the Holocaust and other genocides, such as Cambodia, Bosnia, Rwanda and Darfur.

It is held on January 27 every year to mark the anniversary of the liberation in 1945 of the largest Nazi death camp, Auschwitz-Birkenau. The theme for this year's memorial day is Don't Stand By.

The ceremony at Woolwich Town Hall is open to the public and starts at 10.30am.

Mayor's charity runners off the blocks

SUPPORTERS of the Mayor's charities are in training for April's London Marathon. They include three royal borough councillors Danny Thorpe, Chris Lloyd and Mehboob Khan. Other named team members so far include Vicky Nock, David May, Chris

Matthews and Chris Symons.

The running team will be raising money for the mayor's charities, which include the Early Dove School in Lusaka, Zambia, and the sensory garden
 at the Greenwich and Bexley Community Hospice.

The mayor Cllr
 Norman Adams explained that his family now supports more than 200 children who are mainly orphans and victims of AIDS because his brother-in-law was a civil servant in Zambia. His charity is also sponsoring the sensory garden at the hospice as his partner Serena is partially-sighted.

He said: "I have had a really good response from people wanting to run the marathon on behalf of my chosen charities, and I am especially encouraged by the support and enthusiasm from fellow councillors. I wish them all good luck with their training and preparation in the run up to the big day."

Licence victory for royal borough

Trader loses appeal

by Laraine Clay

THE owner of a Plumstead convenience store has lost his appeal against the revocation of his licence after a previous conviction for the illegal sales of cigarettes at the shop.

Abid Ali had applied for the transfer of the premises licence for Mini Payless in Plumstead Common Road to a new company, EDN Food & Wine Ltd last April.

However, the council's trading standards reviewed the licence amid concerns that objectives of the Licensing Act 2003 would not be met.

Mr Ali transferred the licence following the prosecution of the previous licence holder at the Mini Payless business who was fined £8,200 for possessing and selling illegal tobacco and for failing to display a statutory warning notice about tobacco sales to children under 18.

Mr Ali took on the premises licence under the guise of his new company but a hearing of the council's licensing sub-committee last June revoked the licence after hearing a report from officers concerned about the protection of children from harm, public safety and the prevention of crime and disorder.

Mr Ali appealed against the decision but this was dismissed at Bexley Magistrates Court last Monday (January 11). The court stated Mr Ali had not put forward any evidence to show why the council's decision had been incorrect and he was ordered to pay costs of £1,500.

The royal borough has been working with five other South-east London boroughs to tackle the sale of illegal tobacco over the last two years.

Cllr Jackie Smith, the council's cabinet member for community safety and environment, said she was pleased the court had supported the licensing sub-committee decision.

"We are determined to crack down on the sales of illegal goods, which make it more difficult for those trying to quit, and to protect our children from the dangers of smoking wherever we can," she said.

"Traders should be aware that we will use whatever powers we can to keep our communities safe from sales of potentially harmful products."

● Anyone who suspects the illegal sale of tobacco or alcohol can call the council's trading standards team on 020 8921 8223 or tradingstandards@royalgreenwich.gov.uk, or report it on the Keep It Out website at www.keep-it-out.co.uk

Safety check tips for Red Cross collectors

THE British Red Cross will be making door-to-door calls in the borough this month in a drive to recruit new supporters and raise more funds.

The council's trading standards team says it is easy to check any callers are legitimate:

- they will be wearing a red tabard, red polo shirt, jacket or gilet with the British Red Cross emblem
- they will display an Appco Group Support or British Red Cross identification badge with their name, photo and ID number
- they will all carry a letter of authority from the British Red Cross.

If residents need further assurance, they can contact the British Red Cross supporter care team on 0300 456 1155 to verify the legitimacy of a fundraiser, or email supportercare@redcross.org.uk with any questions.

To check on Appco agency fundraisers, contact the Appco Group support helpline on 0800 031 9811.

Legitimate British Red Cross fundraisers will be requesting regular donations paid for by direct debit - if you have concerns about people calling door-to-door who say they are collecting for charity, contact Greenwich trading standards neighbourhood response team immediately on 020 8921 8223.

High Street improvements

through a close working partnership with residents and businesses, and the scheme has evolved over time to incorporate their suggestions and feedback."

Almost 900 people, businesses and organisations responded to the consultation document, with nearly 90 per cent in favour of the scheme.

Some slight changes have been made to the original plans in response to residents' views such as increased disabled parking space and retaining bus stops in their current location on the central, south side of the high street.

Council leader Denise Hyland said: "From the very beginning we have been keen to develop a scheme that local people want. This scheme has been developed in close partnership with residents and businesses and this is reflected in the responses to the consultation last summer which have been overwhelmingly supportive. Even so we have listened to the comments made about issues such as parking and made changes to improve the scheme further."

Eltham MP Clive Efford added: "Local people have really engaged in the consultation for this scheme and I commend the council for the way it has taken on board comments from local businesses and local people. The timescales are tight to complete the scheme in plenty of time for Christmas shopping period. I hope the scheme will now go ahead without any delays."

The scheme, which will cost a total of £6.6 million from a range of council and TfL budgets, was agreed last week by councillors and is subject to the council's usual call-in procedures.

Concerns for missing teen

CONCERNS are growing for a royal borough teenager who has been missing since Christmas Eve. Police are appealing for help to find Rosanna Manuel, 16, (pictured) who was last seen on December 24 2015 at her home in Thamesmead. She has not contacted her family since. Rosanna is described as black, 5ft 3ins tall with brown hair that she often wears in a ponytail. She also has her left nostril pierced with a small stud and had long green fake nails. When last seen, she was wearing a black and white scarf, a dark blue long-sleeved shirt, a black jacket, black leggings and white Adidas trainers. She was carrying a black handbag.

● Anyone who has seen Rosanna, or knows of her whereabouts, is asked to contact officers at Greenwich via 101.

Take care of your neighbourhood

THE new year is all about resolutions so why not make one to help keep your local neighbourhood clean and tidy? Residents concerned about environmental issues affecting the borough are encouraged to become Environment Champions and make a valuable contribution to getting local streets looking their very best.

The borough-wide voluntary scheme involves organising clean-ups and helping to keep neighbourhoods tidy, keeping an eye on environmental issues affecting the locality and reporting problems to the council.

Environment Champions decide for themselves how much time they spend on the job and which area to keep an eye on. Most of the work will simply involve reporting environmental problems such as overflowing litter bins, graffiti and abandoned vehicles. Cllr Jackie Smith, the royal borough's cabinet member for community safety and environment said: "I continue to be impressed by the dedication of our environmental champions who play a vital role alongside the council in keeping our streets and open spaces clean and tidy, and contribute towards a better local environment for residents."

"I encourage anyone who is concerned about littering, dog mess, fly tipping, abandoned vehicles and graffiti to consider becoming an environment champion. It is all about local people and the council working together to make Royal Greenwich a better place."

● For more information, visit www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/environmentchampions call 020 8921 6157 or email cleaner@royalgreenwich.gov.uk. Check the street cleaning schedule for your street at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/cleanstreets

Action plan for severe weather

THE council's Winter Service Plan is in place to keep residents and local businesses in their stride should the royal borough face severe weather in the coming weeks. In place until March, the plan outlines the decisive action the council will take to keep highways and footpaths in a safe and passable condition in snowy, icy conditions.

The Winter Plan also outlines how the council will make decisions during colder conditions - such as how it prioritises salting and gritting routes for roads and paths.

The council aims to respond to all requests as quickly as possible, with main roads, public transport routes, hospital access routes and busy hills being prioritised. The council also aims to clear slopes and stairways in communal areas of estates where possible.

Cllr Danny Thorpe, the royal borough's cabinet member with responsibility for highways, said: "The local area has already experienced some cold weather this month and residents can be reassured that the Winter Service Plan is in place ready to help us manage any difficult or severe conditions in the coming weeks. We remain committed to keeping roads and pathways usable and important services running for residents wherever possible."

He stressed: "We also encourage residents to make a big difference by doing small things like brushing away snow near your home and checking in on elderly neighbours. Use common sense and your actions will contribute to a safer and more accessible neighbourhood please don't be put off clearing paths because of any legal implications."

We can be local heroes

THE search is on for local people who make a real difference in the royal borough. From volunteers and community champions to outstanding entrepreneurs and sporting stars, entries are now being taken for this year's Civic Awards - and residents are invited to nominate who others who they think make Royal Greenwich an even better place to live in work and visit.

THIS year's Civic Awards celebrate residents and organisations that make outstanding contributions to life in the local community.

The annual event, held at Woolwich Town Hall, will see people from all walks of life honoured in a range of categories - all designed to recognise the vital role they play in making the royal borough such a special place.

Greenwich Time readers are urged to make sure those that matter to them are given the right recognition by nominating people and organisations they think deserve a Civic Award. There are seven categories in 2016's awards, honouring achievements across a wide range of vocations. Winners will be announced in March. Cllr Denise Hyland, leader of the royal borough said:

"The Civic Awards represent a fantastic opportunity to honour the individuals and organisations that work so hard to make Royal Greenwich such a fantastic place and celebrate their achievements. I am sure that readers of Greenwich Time will know lots of local people that really deserve recognition so please get your nominations in as soon as possible so the royal borough can show its appreciation."

TWENTY-YEAR-OLD Nkemjika Eka has become more involved with coaching and mentoring at Charlton Athletic Community Trust since winning his Civic Award.

The Abbey Wood sports enthusiast turned his back on a life in gangs and received an achiever of the year award in recognition of earning coaching awards and volunteering to coach other young people. He was nominated by Matt Horne, youth services partnership manager at CACT, whose nomination form read: 'I have known Nkemjika since he was a young boy and have followed the highs and lows of his teenage years. With the correct support Nkemjika has come away from a dark place and is now flourishing. We at CACT have high hopes for him.'

The former pupil of St Paul's Academy said: "Winning the award has given me more opportunities. I've been a coach and health adviser and now I want to get into the fitness industry perhaps as a personal trainer. I felt honoured to be noticed for what I had been trying to do and it's inspired me to keep going in a positive direction and shows how important it is for young people to be recognised for the good things they do."

In 2014 the Civic Awards recognised the contribution of Jeremy James, who has been its artistic director of the Greenwich and Lewisham young People's Theatre (GLYPT) since 2003, in the Contribution to Culture, Sports and the Arts category. Jeremy looked back on his award and told GT: "In the community arts sector just getting acknowledgement both for me and GLYPT is very satisfying. It is great to see our long hours and hard work was marked - everyone needs a pat on the back now and then. I think people want to see figures in the local community valued and hopefully this year's Civic Awards will do that for a wide range of deserving people."

Joan Sowamber received a Civic Award for working tirelessly to promote good relations and community cohesion in Woolwich. She chairs the Walpole Estate Management Board and works closely with the Woolwich Common Safer Neighbourhood Team. Joan said: "It was an absolute joy to receive it and it has pride of place. You can't get this kind of reward on your own and there were a lot of people in the background enabling me to achieve that. All residents of Royal Greenwich need to look around - there are so many people going the extra mile for their community and I encourage you to nominate them."

Triple tribute to Mr Burns

GET ON BOARD: the clipper hosts Burns Night celebrations on Saturday

BURNS Night celebrations at the Cutty Sark in Greenwich this weekend have a special significance.

The ship's name comes from Robert Burns' poem Tam O'Shanter in which farmer Tam is chased by a scantily clad witch, Nannie, dressed only in a cutty sark – an old Scottish name for a short nightdress.

Nannie is depicted as the figurehead on the three-masted clipper – and 'she' will be reciting the poem at the celebrations on Saturday night, January 23.

The evening offers the chance to explore the ship as well as enjoying some traditional Scottish dancing and sea shanties while raising a free toast to the poet.

The Cut A Shine ceilidh band will be encouraging everyone to strip the willow and dance the Gay Gordons underneath the ship's hull.

The evening is for over-18s and starts at 7pm. Tickets cost £25, £20 for students, and include a free shot of Cutty Sark whisky.

Book tickets at www.rmg.co.uk

THE Live Canon ensemble will be performing music and poetry on Burns Night to celebrate the work of the Scottish bard.

The Greenwich Theatre audience can enjoy such Burns classics as My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose and Tam O'Shanter as well as poems inspired by him over the last 250 years.

The evening starts at 7.30pm on Monday, January 25 at Greenwich Theatre in Crooms Hill. Tickets, which include a nip of whiskey for the traditional Burns Night toasts, cost £16.

More details at www.greenwichtheatre.org.uk Blackheath Halls has a free Burns Night event on Sunday, January 24 with an evening of contemporary music and fun, complete with haggis and whiskey.

Although free, the evening is ticketed – call the box office on 020 8463 0100.

Step out for a winter wander

If you feel like getting out and about in the fresh air this weekend, Transport for London has organised a series of free Winter Wanderers guided walks to choose from.

The 6.5 mile route goes through Shad Thames with views across the river Thames to Wapping, Limehouse and Millwall.

All the walks are accompanied by a trained leader and experienced back marker – for more information about the Winter Wanderers walks, visit www.walklondon.gov.uk

THE long-awaited film adaptation of the classic Scottish novel Sunset Song was finally completed thanks largely to the efforts of Abbey Wood producer Alice de Sousa.

Legendary film maker Terence Davies had tried for 15 years to pull together funding to transfer Lewis Grassic Gibbon's gritty tale on to the big screen.

But it was only when the European film group which Alice heads in the UK managed to attract the last third of the funding that Davies' dream became reality.

Alice, who was artistic director of Greenwich Playhouse before it closed in 2012, is managing director of Iris Productions UK, which is based in Abbey Wood and is part of the European Iris Group.

Also an actress and a playwright, she is listed as co-executive producer on the Sunset Song credits. And she is proud of her involvement in helping to get the film made.

"It is a really lovely British film, beautifully executed by a great British director, based on a book that is a literary gem," Alice told Scene.

Sunset Song stars Peter Mullan and Aynsley Deyn as the father and daughter eking a living out of the beautiful but often harsh Scottish landscape on the eve of the First World War.

Alice said: "The story has an appeal that is universal, and Terence took the elements of it that everybody could relate to. I think he has done a marvellous job."

Filmed in New Zealand, Luxembourg and Aberdeenshire, many of the scenes were shot using 65mm photography which she said has given it a "breathtaking" quality.

The film premiered at the Toronto Film Festival and has been in competition at festivals in San Sebastian, London and Mumbai.

Since Sunset Song was completed, Alice has worked as executive producer on a film directed by Roger Spottiswood, A Street Cat Named Bob, which is based on the true story of a homeless man and his cat in London.

Alice also runs Galleon Films and Galleon Theatre Company and is particularly proud of current projects she is involved in which will see two highly acclaimed productions from her Greenwich Playhouse days made into films – The Angel of Bordeaux, a story of true heroism set in occupied France in World War II, and Ines de Castro, which she described as the Romeo and Juliet of the Iberian Peninsula.

Speaking about her increasing involvement in the movie world, she said: "Film is very different from theatre but the disciplines are the same, the demands are the same and the responsibilities are the same. Theatre gave me a great grounding."

GreenwichHomes

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 477

BIDDING FOR PROPERTIES

People on the Housing register are able to bid for all properties, regardless of their banding. You must be eligible for the size of property and bids will be considered in the following order:

First Band A, followed by Band BI/B2 both in priority date order. Those in Band C will then be considered in registration date order.

Please note that there will still be some properties with age restrictions so only people of this age group can apply for these.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- BI is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly
- or
- B2 homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and BI/B2.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free at either The Eltham or Woolwich Centre or a local library.

Apply in one of three ways

- Text bidding is now available and the number to use is 07786207913. For further information please see page 2, or
- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 27 January 2016 at midday. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 24 January 2016.

- Make sure your garden is not overgrown and you have cleared all garden waste.
- Clear all your items from the inside and the outside of the property. This includes any loft space, external cupboards or sheds.
- Return all the keys to the Royal Borough's offices no later than midday on Monday (or Tuesday if it is a Bank Holiday). You will be charged a further week's rent if you do not return your keys on time.

If you leave repairs that are your responsibility, or items that require disposal you will be charged the cost of this work.

Row row row your boat... for sailing club charity

A WATERSPORTS charity is asking residents to do something oarsome this year to help them raise funds.

The AHOY Centre based in Deptford offers disadvantaged young people and disabled people the opportunity to build life skills through sailing and rowing.

And it has thrown down the challenge for good sports to come forward and compete in rowing events on the river Thames, and at sea, to boost funds.

There are three opportunities to take part:

- the Meridian Pull, an 8.5 mile row past the Houses of Parliament to Greenwich on different dates
- the Great River Race Challenge, 21.6 miles from Docklands to Ham in Surrey on September 3
- the Channel row across the 23 miles of sea from England to France.

You do not need to be an experienced rower to take part in any of the challenges as training will be given by qualified instructors. Boats, equipment and safety support are all provided.

To find out more or to book a place, email rowing@ahoy.org.uk or call 020 8691 7502 ext 105.

Adult learning skills and courses taster day

AN event this Thursday (Jan 21) will showcase the huge array of adult learning opportunities available to residents in the royal borough. Local people can find out about the many subjects to choose from at a taster day at the Eltham Centre from 10am to 3pm where they will be able to sign up to courses and even have a go at some of them. Staff from the council's Labour and Business service (GLLaB) will also be there to support and match people with local vacancies.

There are loads of courses to choose from in the royal borough's many adult learning centres, from growing your own veg, photography and digital skills workshops, to improving your existing English skills or even learning a new language entirely. Many of the courses are designed to help people get the skills they might need to get into employment, return to work – or even change career.

Club and keep fit dance off

FANCY getting fit and going clubbing at the same time? Then new weekly sessions in Thamesmead could be just the ticket.

Clubbercise is the latest fitness trend with classes taught in a darkened room illuminated by disco lighting, lasers and flashing glow sticks, while you move to the sound of club anthems from the last 25 years.

The fun classes, designed for all the family to enjoy, are part of Thamesmead's flagship fitness programme, Now's the Time, which offers affordable and accessible activities.

Clubbercise sessions cost £1 for adults and are free for under-18s. They are held every Friday from 5.30-6.30pm at Hawksmoor Youth Centre in Bentham Road.

More than 1,500 people took part in over 8,000 hours of fitness sessions in the first year of the Now's the Time programme.

It offers a wide range of sports and physical activities for just £1 which are held in community venues across Thamesmead with qualified coaches and instructors. Sessions are designed for people who have been inactive for some time to help them get fit.

Launched in 2014, Now's the Time is a three-year partnership project between Trust Thamesmead, Gallions, Peabody, Royal Greenwich and Bexley council, and Sport England, supported by Charlton Athletic Community Trust.

Applicants must be taking part in one or more

They must also live or study in Greenwich or have a strong association with the borough.
